“ Nix Solutions are great to work with! They thoroughly adhered to deadlines set and also managed some additional requests we had. Victoria, who was our contact person, was a great communicator, responsible and friendly, yet very professional. Would work with them again. ”

“ Dmitry is an excellent individual/programmer to work with. He is precise with his work and knowledgeable with the many technologies in his industry. He is proficient at his craft and thankfully so – our seemingly simple project ended up requiring more time and effort than expected to work through challenges neither of us expected. The extensive scope of his experience allowed for quick solutions to the challenges.

I believe many other freelancers would have gotten stuck at this point and I would have to spend extra time interviewing someone else and the whole thing would be a hassle. I believe in paying more to hire someone who can do the job well and still be able to respond to any unexpected bugs.

Dmitry also has a likable and friendly personality which made communication that much easier. Highly responsive with quick turnarounds. I highly recommend him to anyone who's okay with paying more – for the peace of mind that the job will be done. ”

Ag Digital Media

“ Our business was new to eLance and to working with new companies we have never worked with before and we were unaware of the process involved. We chose a company called NIX Solutions from a list of bidders, because of their knowledge of the work we needed and their excellent prices.

The process of working with NIX Solutions was a positive experience right from the start. We found their staff to be very educated, knowledgeable, and friendly with a super fast turnaround time and excellent fair pricing.

We also noticed their attention to communication and detail was extremely well focused, and we constantly felt in “good hands” all the way through the process.

We have since worked with many other projects with NIX Solutions, and will continue to use them for ALL of our future web development requirements as we feel NIX Solutions is perfect for any project you need, large or small. ”
